1. Using this checklist

This is a quick guide to some of the practical steps you should take, as a second hand car dealer, to help ensure that you comply with two important pieces of consumer protection law that affect how you deal with your customers:

- The Consumer Protection from Unfair Trading Regulations 2008 (CPRs), which ensure that you deal with consumers fairly and honestly.
- The Consumer Rights Act 2015 (CRA), which sets out your legal obligations to consumers with regard to the quality of the vehicle and the description you give of it. It also sets out your duties when something goes wrong with the vehicle.

It is important that you read and understand this guide to make sure you are treating your customers properly.

“The checklist is intended to help you to comply with the law and protect your business’s reputation.”

2. Scope of the checklist

This checklist is not a detailed guide which covers every possible scenario that you may encounter, as much will depend on the circumstances of each case. It should be read in conjunction with the accompanying CTSI full guidance for second hand car dealers on compliance with the CPRs and CRA.

It is not a substitute for the law itself nor does it replace the role of a court, which is to provide a definitive interpretation of the law. However, the checklist is intended to help you comply with the law and protect your business’s reputation. There is also other important legislation that may apply to you which is not covered in this checklist.

Remember: it is your responsibility to comply with the law. If you do not comply with the law you may face enforcement action by Trading Standards or other bodies. You could also lose your customers, some of whom may have the right to take legal action against you.

For further advice you should contact your local Trading Standards service and/or seek independent legal advice.

3. Overview of the law

CONSUMER PROTECTION FROM UNFAIR TRADING REGULATIONS 2008 (CPRS)

The CPRs prohibit you, as a second hand car dealer, from engaging in unfair business practices when you deal with consumers. If you treat your customers fairly, then you are likely to be complying with the CPRs. However, if you mislead, behave aggressively, or otherwise act unfairly towards your customers, then you are likely to be in breach of the CPRs and could face civil or criminal sanction. Unfair business practices can occur before, during or after a transaction between you and a consumer.

CONSUMER RIGHTS ACT 2015 (CRA)

The CRA is the main piece of law helping consumers to obtain redress when their purchases 'go wrong'. As a second hand car dealer you need to know how the law, in relation to the sale of vehicles, affects you and your customers.

Essentially, the CRA states that the vehicles you sell must be of satisfactory quality, be fit for their purpose and match their description – and that you must have the right to sell the vehicle.

If not, you – as the seller – are legally obliged to sort out the problem. The customer will be entitled to a number of remedies against you, which may include a full refund or a repair or replacement vehicle.

“If you treat your customers fairly, then you are likely to be complying with the Consumer Protection from Unfair Trading Regulations.”

Pre-sale vehicle history checks

Mileage checks

Before exposing any vehicle for sale you should take all reasonable steps to establish the accuracy of the stated mileage.

Inform customers about mileage discrepancies

Inform customers prior to sale of:

1 The steps you have taken to check the vehicle's mileage.

2 What you have found out (or not been able to find out), or know, about the mileage or likely mileage.

- Types of basic mileage checks you should do include:
  - Conducting a mileage check with an independent and reliable company.
  - Checking the mileage shown on the MOT certificate with DVSA.
  - Ensuring the condition of the vehicle is comparable with the described age and mileage.
- If you discover a discrepancy or suspect the mileage may be incorrect, you should carry out further investigations, for example checking the mileage with previous registered keepers.
- Unless you are satisfied that the mileage of a vehicle is accurate, it should not be quoted in advertisements, discussions or negotiations or in any documents related to the supply of the vehicle.
- You should inform the customer prior to sale of the steps you have taken to check the mileage and what you have found out (or not been able to find out), or know, about the mileage or likely mileage. For example:
  - If you know from checking previous MOT records that the vehicle's current odometer reading is wrong and that the vehicle's last recorded mileage was 'x miles' or that the vehicle has travelled 'in excess of x miles' you should inform the customer of this.

	Mileage disclaimers Mileage disclaimers should only be used as a last resort where after completing all reasonable checks you identify the mileage is wrong or it has been impossible to confirm the correct mileage.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li><input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Do not rely on mileage disclaimers as a substitute for carrying out reasonable checks on a vehicle.</li> <li><input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Do not rely on generic mileage disclaimers as a substitute for giving customers specific information about what you have found out (or not been able to find out), or know, about the vehicle’s mileage or likely mileage</li> </ul>
General disclaimers	Avoid the use of disclaimers when dealing with consumers.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li><input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Do not use disclaimers that mislead consumers about their legal rights, for example ‘Sold as Seen’, ‘Trade Sale Only’, ‘No Refund’, ‘Unroadworthy’ or ‘Spare or Repair’</li> </ul>
Checking the vehicle’s mechanical condition	Make sure you have procedures in place for checking the condition of any vehicle you intend to sell to ensure it is safe, roadworthy and of satisfactory quality.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li><input checked="" type="checkbox"/> You should arrange for a qualified person to carry out a pre-sale inspection of vehicles to make sure that:                             <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• The vehicle is roadworthy and safe before being exposed for sale.</li> <li>• The vehicle is of ‘satisfactory quality’ such that it is fit for use on the road, in a condition which reflects its age and price, and is reliable.</li> </ul> </li> <li><input checked="" type="checkbox"/> As part of your due diligence system keep a full record of checks carried out – Trading Standards or customers may wish to see them.</li> <li><input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Do not just rely on MOT or service histories.</li> </ul>

AFTER SALES SERVICE
Dealing with complaints and enquiries	Make sure you have an accessible and user-friendly after-sales procedure to ensure that all customer enquiries and complaints are dealt with in an honest, fair, reasonable and professional way.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li><input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Deal with complaints promptly and try to resolve them if at all possible.</li> <li><input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Make sure your customer complaints procedure is understood and followed by all staff who may come into contact with the public. We recommend that you have a written complaints procedure.</li> <li><input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Record all complaints and note the final outcome. Keep complaint records.</li> <li><input checked="" type="checkbox"/> You must not obstruct customers or refuse to listen to their complaints, for example by not answering the phone or not responding to letters/emails.</li> <li><input checked="" type="checkbox"/> You must not intimidate or pressurise customers into dropping complaints.</li> </ul>
Faulty vehicles	Remember: Consumer Rights law applies to second hand as well as new vehicles. Customers are entitled to vehicles of 'satisfactory quality'. This means more than just ensuring the vehicle is safe and roadworthy – the vehicle should be fit for use on the road, in a condition which reflects its age and price, and reliable.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li><input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Where a vehicle you sell is not of 'satisfactory quality', the customer is entitled to ask for:             <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• a full refund, within 30 days of taking possession of the vehicle (not including any days spent being repaired), or;</li> <li>• a reasonable amount of compensation (or damages), or;</li> <li>• a repair or replacement, or where this is not realistically possible;</li> <li>• a partial or full refund, depending on what is reasonable in the circumstances.</li> </ul> </li> </ul>

Dealing with complaints and enquiries	If the vehicle you sell is not of 'satisfactory quality', the customer is legally entitled to a number of remedies. You are not liable, however: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• For fair wear and tear.</li> <li>• For misuse or accidental damage by the customer.</li> <li>• If you specifically draw to the customer's attention the full extent of any fault or defect before they buy the vehicle.</li> <li>• If the customer examined the vehicle before buying it and should have noticed the fault.</li> <li>• If you sell a vehicle on hire purchase, the customer's legal rights will be against the finance company rather than against you.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>☑ The seller has ONE opportunity to provide a remedy such as a repair. If this fails to resolve the problem, the consumer can reject the vehicle.</li> <li>☑ Where a customer requests a repair or replacement within the first six months after the sale and you dispute their claim, it will be for you to prove that the fault (or inherent cause of the fault) was not present at the time you sold the vehicle.</li> <li>☑ Where a customer is offered a refund after one or more failed repairs (or replacements) you may be able to make a 'deduction for use' from the refund. However, this deduction should only reflect the usage the consumer has had of the vehicle and YOU SHOULD NOT simply reduce the refund to its second-hand value.</li> </ul>
